FIND MUSIC – THE NEW WAY

out-of-tune is a web application, where you can discover all kind of music, even some you never heard of before. You can start off by searching for your favourite artists, and then start exploring from that point. You can broaden your taste in music or find new artists similar to the music you already like.

out-of-tune enables you to go on a journey through the vast amount of music available. Assisted by various functions in our app, you will never lose track of where you are, and how you got there.

We thought of a concept how almost anybody can handle large amounts of data, without losing control. You can navigate on your own. You have the choices about all the parameters, because we just want to help you to find the music you like.

The data is visualised in a networking-graph. Each dot in this network represents something in the world for example an artist.
